(IMPLEMENT)

Majority had said "yes"

- What do you think of our simplistic character design?

(IGNORE)

Many people said that our character design was pretty funny and we can definitely elaborate off of it a little bit more.

(IGNORE)

- Do you think the handling of the player is intuitive enough?

(IGNORE)

People said it was pretty intuitive however the movement felt as if it was a slide show so we would have to make that a little bit more smooth.

- Is the game too easy? If so/not explain how.

Yes, the game was way too easy with people demanding more, they also wanted the controls to improve.

(IMPLEMENT)

- Should there be obstacles or only enemies

We got a lot of both.

(IMPLIMENT)

- If you could add anything what would it be

We got more levels, spikes, enemies that attack, harder platforms, etc.

(IMPLEMENT ALL)

- If you had to rate the current prototype of the game on a scale from 1 to 5 what it would be 4.

(IGNORE)

- Any last questions, thoughts, or concerns about the current prototype?

most people said the same thing as the third to last question they said no as they do not have any

A platformer

With melee sword mechanics

Attacking enemies that shoot at you

There will be pickable items,

- Maybe a potion bottle that gives you double jump temporarily

- A fragment shard that gives you dash abilities with limited dashes

- A shield that can be picked up but broken with a certain amount of hits

- A potion that makes you fast

- A gun that is pickable with a certain amount of ammo

- A sword that is pickable

The more the player progresses the more of these things he can get.

The player can have a health bar and a item bar, max items are 2,

For the potions the player can choose when to use them.

Slow enemy: a close range slow enemy that deals a lot of damage

Fast enemy: a character moves fast but they don't do much damage and a lot of knock back

Big enemy: does a lot of damage and has a lot of health but is super slow

SUMMARY:

A fighting platformer game where you are a dog fighting zombies, collect coins, and find keys to continue the game. You have to complete 25 levels and fight zombies that get harder and harder each time. After completing the first 5 levels and learning the mechanics the game jumps in difficulty making the experience much harder to beat. With lower time limits and keys being hard to find you will have to do quests and complex systems.
